Scott, how about mentioning which year makes you reminisce the most?

SCOTT GARLEY: Freshman year without a doubt. Those were the golden days when the homeroom was a place to which we owed our allegiance, a place in which we had pride. Freshman homerooms always had the greatest spirit probably because homerooms had the most fun. For me that class was F-8 where a little horseplay was not unknown and a few entertaining spectacles could be counted on now and then. Yes as we seniors leave the Academy this year and reflect on our high school days some of our biggest laughs will come from the memories of freshman year incidents.

Mark, do you have any reflections on these times?

MARK BENNETT: This period in our country's history is being characterized by domestic strife at home and international conflicts abroad. The disheartening situations that exist, the energy crisis, corruption in government and law enforcement, and the ominous confrontation in the Middle-East, to name just a few, have had an adverse effect on the way people view themselves, others and their country. They seem to have lost their respect for government, their faith in others and, most grievously, their confidence in themselves. Now we, as seniors in high school amidst all of this, must ponder the inescapable question which confronts every generation—how shall we live our lives?

I think that before deciding upon how one is to live his life (not to say that a person simply sits down and makes such a decision) he must first discover himself. For a person to relate to and deal with the problems of our era, he must first relate to himself. He must recognize his abilities and his individual deficiencies, and from this self-evaluation develop realistic aspirations in relation to others and himself. This is the area of confrontation where one chooses between others and himself. Where he sees iniquity and suffering, will he merely take notice and not let such happen to him, or will he take part in the relief of that transgression and suffering, regardless of the sacrifice? A person must have priorities in his life. If those priorities lie in making more money and seeking the top rung on society's ladder, with a flagrant disregard for anybody or anything, that person has developed a rather reprehensible set of values, values that place all others as obstacles in the way of his self-serving achievement.

When a person becomes captivated with his own desires he negates his full capacity as a human being which manifests itself in a concerned interaction with other human beings. Herein lies the paramount challenge to youth and C.B.A. seniors in particular. To unearth and incarnate from the mass of hatred, distrust and corruption the 'missing link' in the chain of Christianity, between finding and fulfilling oneself and creating a better world for everyone.

If our attitudes toward life and other people, which ultimately determine how we live our lives, can be determined by the 'quality of the day', then certainly we should never be content with the way in which people are presently living their lives. Such characteristics as brotherhood, generosity, good will and understanding are today disdainfully viewed as simply impracticable if one is to "get ahead" in society. Life has become a blur of over-energized, hyper-ambitious people who transform our existence into a vacuum in which those practicing precepts of Christian human values are oft times suffocated.

Well then, how shall we live our lives? We must approach life conscientiously and responsibly, devoid of false fronts and divest of artificial and impersonal masks. We must step out from behind our facades and confront problems with realistic optimism and confidence. Finally, and most importantly, we must have the courage to initiate a social uplift by using our opportunities with devotion and with reliability, for this is where the strength of America lies; in beauty and elevation, not in ugliness and degradation, in confidence and love, not in disruption and hate, and in tradition and a faith in God, not in disrespect and disillusion.

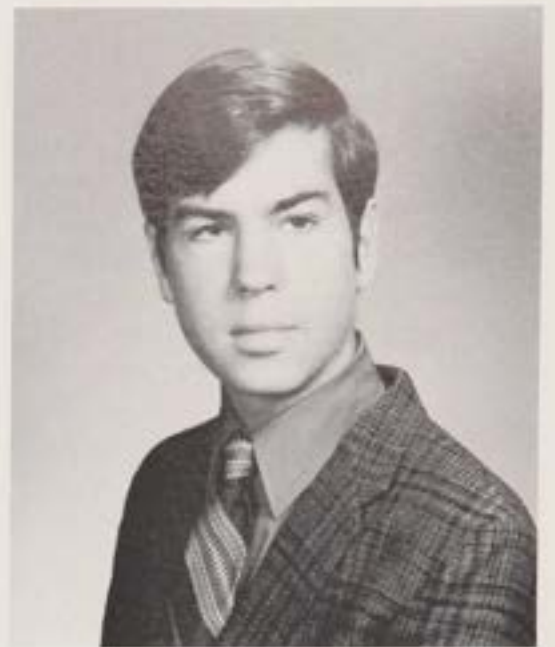

It has been my four years at C.B.A. that has engendered these feelings within me, and opened my eyes to various diverse opinions and outlooks towards life. For this reason I value my four years here very much, and proceed on with satisfaction and optimism.

John seeks to get a project off the ground by explaining details to his fellow students.

John, what comes to your mind about your four years in track?

JOHN GARRIDO: Enjoyable and fulfilling memories—that's what I have of my Varsity track career with its rewarding moments of victories, its let-downs of defeats and exhaustion.

I suppose having only oneself to blame for poor performance and having to fight the inconveniences were the most demanding pressures I personally felt in track.

With the team, of course, I have the obscurity that is the fate of all runners—few are the spectators who wait hours to see a few seconds of performance. Despite this we became addicted to running, living from practice to practice, meet to meet, following opponents' performances—and cherishing every moment of it.

Mark, has anything about CBA been different than what you anticipated?

MARK CURLEY: Before I came here, I had a definite image of what this place was going to be like. I had figured that as I walked in the door there would be someone waiting to hit me with a ruler if I used a black pen instead of blue. CBA didn't play around was the saying.

It didn't take long for me to realize I was in error. There were quite a few young Brothers and teachers and they really were great. I mean, when a teacher comes by after school and plays basketball with you for a while, it helps you appreciate that these people aren't just teachers, but they are real people, and people you are glad to know.

I can give you an example of what I mean: in Soccer intramurals we had to forfeit a game and wanted to play just for fun. We were a man short for two even teams, so we asked Mr. Nicoletti to play. Now he's a teacher, and he wasn't exactly prepared for playing. If I were in his place I might have been thinking it wouldn't be too great. Well, he played. It was one of the best games we played all year, really a lot of fun.

It is this kind of thing that has made my time here at CBA more than routine. I'm going to remember this place for a long time, and I'm going to remember a lot of people around here for a long time too.

Our friendship stayed the same, often increasing upon our interest in each others religion. I was able to participate in all school activities although during the various masses throughout the year I felt somewhat awkward.

As I look back over my four years I remember the fun that we had and that most of my friends during those years were Catholics. In fact, I only had a few non-Catholic friends.

I want to thank all my friends for a very pleasant and thoroughly rewarding four years both intellectually and socially.

Dickie, will your memories of CBA last for a long time?

DICKIE BYRNE: When I'm sitting in my rocking chair, old and gray, I'll stare into the warm glow of the hearth, and drift back to the times when we were younger. I can see myself now, thinking back to the Freshman run; and all those kids I came to know and love so well. It's funny to think that I was scared stiff of them and my new surroundings when I first entered CBA. Oh yes, there's Tommy Keating doing one of Mr. Collins' punish assignments with five pens taped together to save time. I'll remember how proud I was to get through Freshman year.

But it was when I became a sophomore that I achieved status, at least in the eyes of the new freshmen. I'll close my eyes and I'll be able to hear Brother Patrick Duggan saying, "agricola — agricolae," in the Latin room.

I'll probably remember a lot from Brother Henry's Geometry too. Things like how to divide 5 oranges among 6 boys by making orange juice, and just because John likes bananas doesn't mean he's a monkey.

The Bass River field trip will spring to mind with Brother James refusing any help while his canoe teetered on the edge of the waterfall.

I'll look over these events and chuckle, then give a regretful sigh.

Then junior year will be visible. I'll be thinking of Mr. D. telling Allegra to shut up, and the next second Allegra would be getting half the class wet in a water fight. I hope when I'm old I don't forget all the basketball strategy I learned in Mr. Cox's History class, or what he did with the "Tasty-Cake Coach of the Year" trophy.

I know I'll never forget Mr. Bogart in senior year. He had us on about 40 imaginary islands. It drove me crazy.

It is about at this point that I, in my old age, will begin to nod off to sleep. But before I do I will remember the fine job the faculty did for me—how they helped us to see and do things on our own, and laid a firm foundation on which we were to grow and develop. It is because of the devotion of these teachers that I can doze peacefully and in comfort today.

Scott, before moving on to college, how about a glance over these four years?

SCOTT ARGAST: I can remember the start of freshman year. Just saying "CBA" scared many half to death the first time they said it. Most likely you were alone and on your own; what would happen? What could one expect? Well it was amazing how soon you found out the name of the kid sitting next to you or in the next row over. In fact it took very little time before you began calling them friends. Hopefully by the time we reached June we found out how the school functioned after 2:30 and at night. Then we crossed that mile-wide gulf that separated the frosh and sophs. I put it that way because becoming a sophomore has a peculiar effect . . . you are elated into a sense of being God's gift to a newly found world. For some it's a lesson easy to learn, for others it's quite painful to find out that it is just not so. However we all find out, usually rather quickly, that the mile-wide gulf isn't really that wide after all. Then you're a junior: the whole world spins faster and faster with the hunt for a college, PSAT's, College boards, applications, visits, questions, questions and more questions.

Well it's all over now. We've made it, you and I, as graduates of Christian Brothers Academy. Each of us has memories and thoughts about the teacher who didn't like you not doing your work, the team that lost when it had to win, things that didn't go the way they were planned to. We've got those friends. We have got the people that have meant very much to our lives. It's a sad end, but a bright beginning. And now to college and the start of another freshman year.

The ball responds to Kevin Parks' bidding as he travels downfield.

Kelly hustles to thwart the opposition.

The Colts with a 6-7-2 record found the season encouraging. One disappointment was the failure by one victory to qualify for the State Tournament. On the bright side the team under its new coach, Mr. Ferraina, found itself with eight players selected for the All-Conference teams.

Steven Orban, Bob Kelly, and Mike Squillante were chosen for the first team. Orban, a forward, led the team in scoring with nine goals. Squillante was a halfback and Kelly a fullback.

Goalie Ken Moore, halfback Dan Jones, fullback Dan Danish, and wings Kevin Parks and Mike Corcoran made the second team. Moore is a senior, Jones is a junior, Parks and Corcoran are sophomores and Danish is a freshman. Forward Frank Crupi was named for honorable mention.

Other players who have great potential include Walter Johnson, Tom Minogue, Pete Wood, Ralph Nappi, Brian Parks, Tom Perkins, and Mike Cannon.

Coach Ferraina studies the game intently.

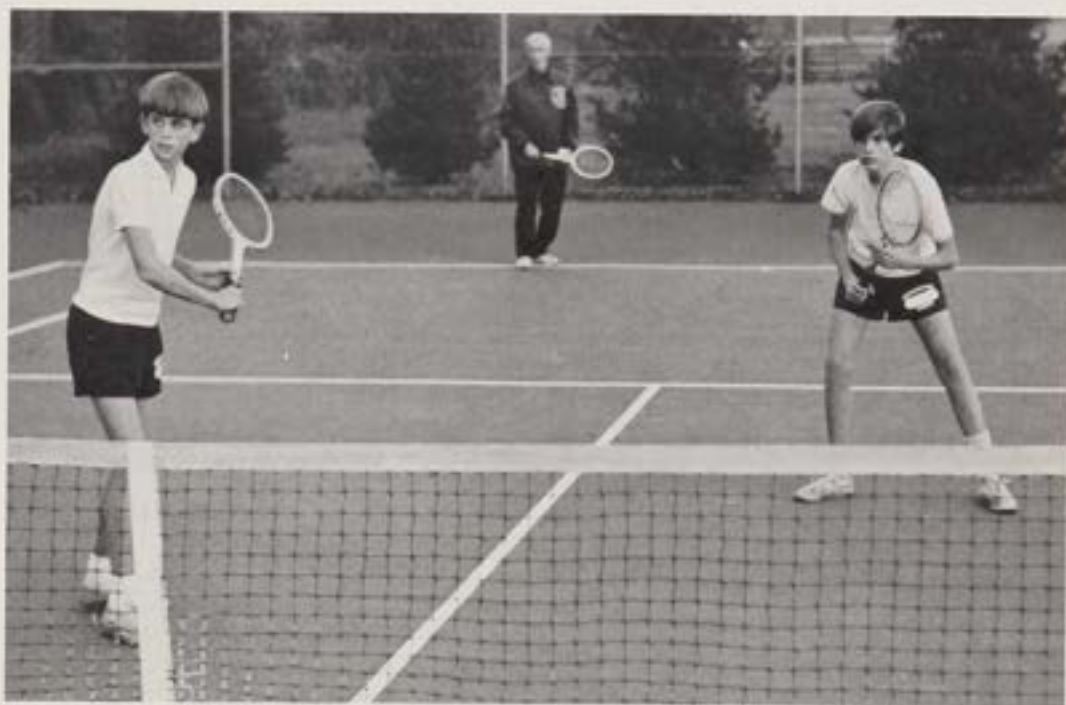

One point behind at halftime calls for reminders of stratagems.

Dave Dickson

What I found very valuable was my taking part in after-school activities, especially Cross-Country and Track. Not only is competitive skill learned but you make new friends. One begins to realize he must face the challenges that such activities demand.

WRESTLING

Congratulations are in order for Al Wonesh after a pin. Coach William Fitzgerald was to find more of them in order from such matmen as Steve Orban (158) shown below.

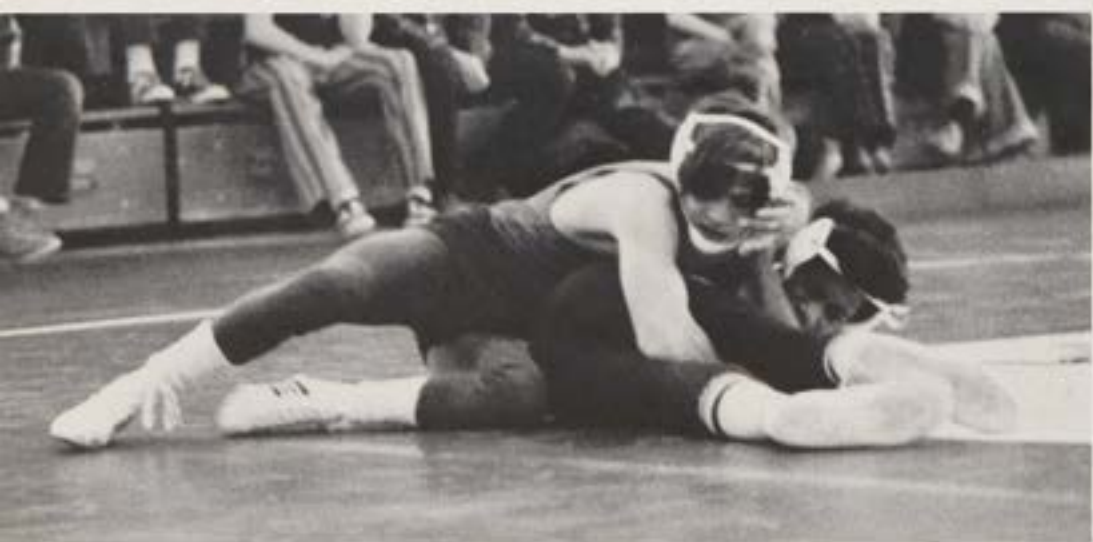

Brian McGlone showing the kind of work that leads to a good season. Below: Pete Smith and Brian Guinter.

Control is the keynote here.

Above: Score two points each for Sagui, Kovchok, Saling and Smith. Left: More often than not the wrestler's view is the opposite of the spectator's.

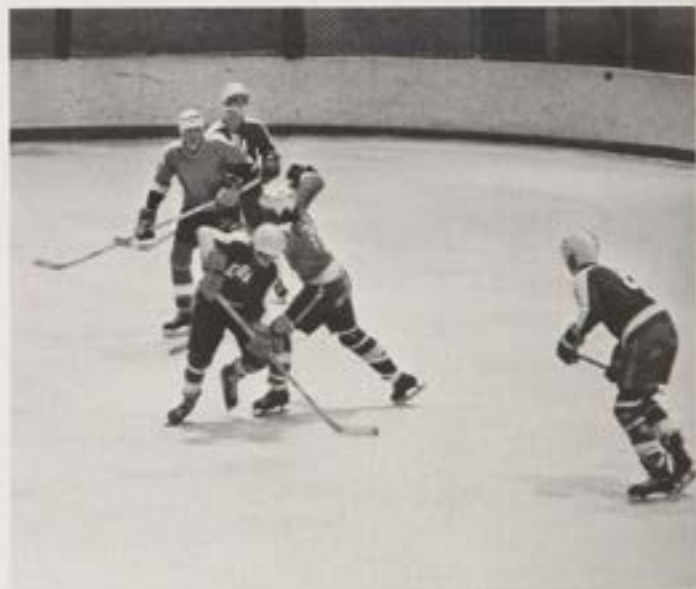

HOCKEY

There's always plenty of action (above and right) for the anxious bench (below) to watch.

C.B.A. takes to ice under Coach Michael Burke.

A goal is scored and the team exults. The season is to be without defeat and is to see the capture of the championship.

Heavy pressure on the goalie Bob DiBarba (above) and hard-hitting opponents were not enough to stem the CBA drive to an undefeated season.

INDOOR TRACK

Bars, hurdles and batons: In the setting of these objects the CBA indoor man works at the mastery of his skill. Above: Skip Steadman. Above right: Mark Hemschoot.

Coach Thomas Heath shouts C.B.A. zone time to Jim Ansell and Jan George.

Bob Kelly's timing and power will do to this shot what cannons once did.

Brother John, Mr. Heath, and Mr. Cusick: They turn activity into teamwork. Together with Mr. W. Joiner and Mr. A. Niccoletti these coaches would direct the team to a season record of 8-1 with first and second places respectively in the CBA Relays and NJCTC Relays, NJCTC Soph Championships and Christian Brothers Championships.

Freshmen, coached by Mr. James Ross, show skill and drive.

INTRAMURAL PADDLEBALL — PING-PONG

Paddles were swinging vigorously indoors and outdoors, depending on whether you preferred warmth or fresh air. Far right: Looks like a ringer. Upper right: John Cahill went on to win in the Freshman-Sophomore Division.

VICTORS

Within a given sport, several divisions may exist. Here some senior league football players recall autumn feats.

These don't look like the terrors of the junior leagues (football, soccer, paddleball)—Why just look at them!

Some boys will have visible reminders of their intramural competitive days by way of the awards they have received. Intramural competition is held in football, soccer, tennis, paddleball, basketball, handball, softball, volleyball, track and table tennis.

SPRING'S AROUND THE CORNER

Winter stiffness starts to yield to the awakening of spring: some get into it fast; others take a while. Right: Joe Carroll and Pete Sokolik at a popular pastime.

Frank Scheuer tries out the shot for the first time in his life; not displeased, he goes over to the javelin coach, Mr. Joiner, for some pointers; seems he got good advice.

With the end of winter chill, scientific exploration goes outdoors.

SPRING CONCERT

Keith Fitzgerald, Mark Conally, Dan Danish and Arthur (Skip) Steadman work on five parts. The fifth, of course, is in Conally's hair.

Perhaps Dan Danish can land a job with Hollywood Studios providing accompaniment for their next Academy Award Winner. Too bad you can't hear him now playing the Sting.

Mr. Senerchia commands and the violin responds: the result—First Class Music.

Guitarists: MR. PATRICK SCOTT, EDWARD MARTZ, JOSEPH FOCARILE
Accompanist: JOSEPH ANNECHARICO
Choral Director: BROTHER PATRICK McNALLY, F.S.C.

It is suspected that you will be seeing this team of Keith Fitzgerald and Ed Martz in the next two editions of Pegasus also. No program is now complete without them.

Brother Patrick conducts the C.B.A. and St. Rose singers. Just after this picture-taking he will direct from the stage in order to be seen by the outliers. Musical participation has received such enthusiastic student support at C.B.A. that in 1974-75 it will be officially in the curriculum.

DRAMATICS

Below: Sigmund Batruk and John Gassert. Above: Joined by Jim Turner and Tom.

On March 22, 23, 29 and 30 C.B.A. presented its first musical comedy, "A FUNNY THING HAPPENED ON THE WAY TO THE FORUM," a modern Broadway production based on the plays of Plautus, the Classical Roman Dramatist. It was a surprising, encouraging and very enjoyable success with total ticket sales over a thousand. The entire project was supervised by Mr. Christopher Bogart, who, with the assistance of Joe Henderson, directed. Brother Henry Mischuk moderated the Production Staff and Stage Crew, Brother Patrick McNally handled the musical arrangement, and Mr. Thomas Cusick ran the business end of the affair. Many others throughout the school also donated their time and effort, and it is hoped that this may be the beginning of a long tradition of theatrical excellence at C.B.A.

Why do so many men find John Gassert attractive?

TENNIS

The Number One Singles man Tom Cuming proves his quality this year by handing Shore High School star Hammond his first loss in 48 contests.

"Tennis" and "Burrus" go together. Rich plays outstandingly on the CBA Doubles squad.

The CBA Second Doubles team features outstanding frosh talent in Mark Caprio (shown) and Rich Burrus.

The Number One Doubles team of Rich Fitzsimmons (not shown) and Rich Werner (right) is to prove unbeatable. Alternate Wayne Russell is shown here with Werner.

Talented play by a freshman like Dan Danish makes coach John O'Shea's job a pleasant one.

OUTDOOR TRACK

Runners with Coach Heath are, standing: T. Soldini, B. Higgins, J. George, S. Higgins, M. Boggs, G. Bordiuk, M. Hemschoot. Kneeling: C. O'Brien, J. Dennis, P. Mc-

Donough, D. Fay, P. Shaheen, T. Angley. Seated: W. Durkin, J. Lynch, S. Starace, J. Surgent, T. Minogue, F. Byrne.

Skill and daring combine to make an afternoon of track and field activity at Sheehan Field (C.B.A.) a great event to watch.

Many of these freshmen will go on to be four-year track and field enthusiasts. The Olympics? Well, maybe one or two. Rear: J. Angley, J. Boggs, D. Barry, R. Redmond, S. Pellegrinelli, J. Cameron, T. Boyer, T. Fay. Middle: T. Deehan, R.

Gale, R. Reilly, F. Rochelle, P. Wernicki, A. Campanella, S. Kustera, W. Dey, L. Paladeau. Front: R. Stansfield, M. Fagan, J. Powlowski, S. Beck, D. Altier, M. Zieniewicz, M. Linne.

HANDBALL

Outdoor handball, uncommon in the Shore area, becomes an all-season activity for many C.B.A. boys. The spring league incorporates both singles and doubles matches using practice handballs except where regulation balls are desired. The 1974 champion, David Jurman, is not shown. Below: On the opposite side of the wall a game of "cut-throat" goes on at the far court, Rich Mumford trying to make his points against Jim Gathercole and Pat Cleary.

Left: The shadow shows Scott will not get this ball in the face, despite appearances. Above: Dave Barry and Rich Reilly keep in shape for the opening of spring track. Below: Is Pat Cleary trying to see Tom's manner of keeping his shots straight and true so as to cut down on his walks to the trees?

SOFTBALL

A little chill in the air doesn't keep the softball enthusiasts off the fields.

With catches like Brian Murray's taking place coaches like John Dubel get nothing to do at third.

This one is going over the batter and into Benilde Hall. Take a look at the screening if you don't believe it.

Spectators, not umpires, watch this catch for an out by Bob. The softball games are not umpired yet seem to be played without many problems.

Sidelines along the softball fields are always the settings for chatter and amusement. Don't laugh too much at that batter's chop at a bowling ball, pal, because you're up next!

Connection! It makes for a good feeling; even better if you get to first.

An alert team backs up Gene Gallagher in an early season game.

JUNIOR-SENIOR VARIETY SHOW

Secretary	David Gluck
Treasurer	Ara Hovnanian

Dennis, Ara, Miguel and Dave.

The Social Committee: one of the most active student groups. It is seen in action when preparations are needed for film nights, dances and coffee houses. Standing: M. Alexander, T. Soldini, F. Craparo, T. McCabe, D. Burke, R. Merski, J.

Tort, F. McCormick, R. Chakamian, K. McGuire, H. Warren, V. Burke, R. Pontolillo, T. Kitrick, P. Cleary. Kneeling: T. Van Nosedall, I. Shidlovsky.

Say "Work" and what comes to mind? McCormick, Curley, Soldini, Warren, Hemschoot, Pichini, Wheatley, Cleary, Hovnanian, Byrne, Merski, Craparo, Fitz, Steadman, Stevens, Brunone, McGuire, Wright, Byrne, Pontolillo, Bisconti, Garley.

Richard Merski and Frank Craparo post some campaign material for voters to ponder. Their platform points were to be well noted by the students who were to elect them both to offices.

Ara Hovnanian narrates to the school assembly how Greg Di Paolo was inspired one morning during his shave that he should go on the Walk for Mankind.

RELIGIOUS ACTIVITIES

Small group services are held on suitably selected days (here, Ash Wednesday) so that boys may have time to dwell upon what they are all about in the mind of God.

Students and faculty help the action of the Mass on the occasions it is held in the gym. Mr. Boro here is the lector.

Song by C.B.A. students at the Fathers' Club Annual Communion Breakfast and Mass helps dispel the minds' fussions and bring the congregation to a thoughtful and prayerful mood.

"A committee, a committee, I need a committee," says Father Paul. He gets one and the mission drive is under way. Standing: J. H. O'Hern, R. Di Barba, G. Di Paolo, M. Huggins, Father Paul,

F. Craparo, A. Steadman. Kneeling: E. Taylor, M. McDermitt, J. Tomaino, A. Hovnanian, D. Barry, C. Curley.

Students have the opportunity of significant participation in religious services. This year saw boys volunteer to serve, read, enact the offertory and deliver homilies. Here Adam Gordon reads.

"Jesus Christ is ris'n today" and the commemoration of it is held in room one. Mr. Licari leads in prayer.

TORCH

Charlie Leonhardt has discovered that the fuel for the Torch is mostly elbow grease.

Many readers belong to specialized audiences: John sticks to play reviews, Ralph to poems and letters and Matt is a sports page man.

The workhorses who kept the presses rolling. Back: T. Soldini, news editor; P. Luccarelli, senior editor-in-chief; M. McCormick, senior associate editor; H. Warren, feature editor. Front: R. Merski, headline editor; M. Roth, editorials; S. Finelli, sports editor; C. Leonhardt, management.

These are the faces that go with the names that you may have seen hooked onto some articles you enjoyed. Back: B. Cordes, P. Balaguer, S. Forbes, P. Lyden, P. Cleary, C. Vanderveer, P. McDonough. Middle: K. Dombrowski, R. O'Brien,

C. Johnson, P. Sokolik, C. O'Brien, A. Gallambardo. Kneeling: L. Almerini, R. Parra, R. Dibble, L. Martin, B. Murray, J. Greco, G. Piazza.

A writer's day is never done: Steve and Harry will push pens well into the night to meet the next deadline.

FORENSICS

Beginners, but well on their way. Standing: M. Gallinaro, T. Boyer, J. Peach. Seated: J. Tomaino, G. Harakal, L. Cavalier.

In a season of unparalleled award winning, some of the veterans show one of their trophies. Left to right: D. Jurman, J. Katz, D. Ring, J. Turner, K. Koumjian, J. Sjovall.

The Forensics Teams. Learning to speak clearly and to the point is their trade. Here John Katz tosses some debate at Len Cavalier who anticipates its arrival with open hands. Standing: Mr. John Germain, advisor, T. Boyer, K. Koumjian, R. Butterfield, D. Jurman, Mrs. J. Stockbridge, S. Batruk. Seated: J. Katz, J. Turner, J. Tomaino, J. Sjovall, J. Peach, L. Cavalier.

RADIO CLUB

In the CBA radio shack, president Scott Argast demonstrates some of the equipment.

The CBA Radio Club has talked to amateurs in the United States and throughout the world. Standing: R. Denver, J. Marder (vice-pres.), S. Argast (pres.), T. Soldini (treas.), P. Voorhees. Kneeling: D. Mangan (sec.), H. Jentz.

ROCKETRY CLUB

The wires are connected and the rocket is ready for launching; Matt Zieniewicz engineers.

5, 4, 3, 2, 1, Ignition. Another Titan hurtles into the blue.

Liftoffs are conducted at remote areas for safety and good sighting. This camera shot is not from a tracking station; the photographer is merely cautious. Most spectators seem more wary of sunburn than misfires, however.

Steve Starace, many of whose pictures appear in the winter and spring track sections of this book, shows camera club members the do's and don't's of printing.

French Club activities include outings to see the latest Parisian movies. Rear: L. Morton, A. Hovnanian, D. Therkelson, M. Damien, M. Bartosh, Mrs. J. Stockbridge, R. Werner. Front: T. McCloskey, A. Campo, J. Annecharico, S. Finelli, G. DeMuth.

Se habla Español. Back: R. Pontolillo, R. Merski, A. DeMaio, R. Fitzsimmons, E. Ayala, J. Gathercole. Middle: W. Durkin, R. Torres, S. Kennedy, R. Muller J. Lega, R. Abair, D. Jurman.

Front: C. Muller, M. McDermitt, J. Gaughran, M. Damien, A. Campanella, D. Malloy.

The Poster Club. Left: Pete Lyden gets some different reactions from Kevin Kennedy, Skip Steadman, John Chlebowski, Bill Oberlander, Lou Almerini, Joe Carroll and Dan Malloy. Not present: Ed Martz. Poster makers who start in freshman year often become experts in a short time at producing attractive and informative announcements of coming events.

LIBRARY A V SQUADS

These are the men who promise to crank by hand any instrument that collapses within one mod of being set up. Left to right: C. Godly, S. Lubetkin, N. Ercolino, J. Nickels, W. Howell, C. Vanderveer, R. Halloran.

Backstage work by Nick Ercolino makes for happy audiences.

Library aides. Left to right: W. Howell, C. Vanderveer, N. Ercolino, B. Parlock, W. Antonides, C. Godly, C. Leonhardt. Not present: P. Lumia, E. Taylor.

PEGASUS '74

Sigmund Batruk here works on the senior portrait section. Other areas of his include the colored artwork on the divider pages.

Jeff Jones, editor, checks several of the thousands of details that go into the making of a yearbook.

Dan Jones and Ralph Nappi were among the many staff members who designed page layouts.

Dave Jurman, with assistance by Joe Carroll, Pete Sokolik and Phil Voorhees works steadily and at great length to produce the ad section and the athletic statistics pages.

Joe Carroll is one of the workhorses who must go after facts and figures not often readily available.

Hey, how come that picture's not in my book?

Leonard Cavalier seems momentarily lost in reflection during one of his many typing assignments.

Phil Voorhees, Tony Campo, a guest, Joe Annecharico, Dave Jurman, Pete Sokolik.

Photographers. Standing: T. Griffith, G. DiPaolo, M. Hoyt, S. Starace, A. DeMaio, T. McCloskey. Seated: T. Brown, M. Damien, A. Hovnanian. Successful yearbook work demands that several boys be available on call at all times to cover school activities.

OUTINGS

John Roche, John Katz and Dave Barry here focus on a planet at one of the fall evening classes.

Bruce Bahlav separates fossils from rocks in the siftings of Len Cavalier and Mike Linne while on a local field trip held after school. Rich Reilly, Steve Beck, Tony Mancuso, Larry Martin and Bill Perkins check the findings.

Outside Benilde Hall this constitutes the only classroom not on the ground floor. The term "field trip" doesn't quite seem the correct one for this part of the aviation course.

This day's trip is Pennsylvanian in more than one sense of the word. Ask John Gillespie, Pete Wernicki or Steve Wyzga what that means.

Ron Gale, Sig Batruk and Scott Argast seem set to descend the 20-story-deep open pit mine at Sparta in search of minerals. Such expeditions are full day activities.

Larry Martin, Len Cavalier, Mike Linne and Chris Finley take advantage of the cutting power of water in their search for prehistoric remains.

OUTINGS and TOURS

Looks like a merry time was had by all in London. Standing: M. O'Malley, C. VanDerveer, P. Introcaso, T. Moran, M. Smith, L. Taylor, P. Voorhees, M. Kuntne, Brother Richard, W. Burke. Kneeling: F. Wisniewski, M. Richard, J. Greco.

Right: CBA Ski Club members await the bus to the wild New England slopes. Below: A foreign legion, for a week or so, they saw the glory that was Greece. Standing: A. Rogers, W. O'Mara, M. Stevens, H. Warren, S. Kennedy, G. Principato, R. Mota, J. Owendoff, R. Nappi, L. Stadele, P. McDonough, C. Leonhardt, J. Henderson, H. Meehan. Kneeling: M. MacQueen, I. Shidlovsky, S. Vincent, A. Noone, R.
